

These characteristics were common to public schools in the first part of the 19th century before the Arnoldian reforms and the Clarendon Commission Report.